

.net: .include() and .theninclude

Using the scaffolds built by .net for your tables you can use that code to query through your tables using .net code and it will create sql code for you that is more complex (nested, etc).